Additional information / comments

These products have been marketed on-line on https://fillershop.no as injectables even though they are labeled with "topical use only". When injected the substance has an effect on tissue, melting cell membranes, so when injected into fat celles, fat is removed. This is not happening with topical use. There is an approved medicine Belkyra which contain the same API. There is a lot of unlicensed alternatives to Belkyra online which claims to be cosmetics and are labeled with topical use, but according to the different websites their products should all be sold to practisioners and/or only be used by skilled health professionals. This is of course because every practisioner knows it needs to be injected to have any effect. When advertised as injectables or as available treatment for injection by clinics, NoMA classifies these products as medicines.

So far the company Scandinavian Aestethics AS (behind/owner of fillershop.no) has received a letter from NoMA. If they do not comply with the regulation and stop import, sale, advertisement and notify their customers, we will issue a fine. So far they have changed their internetpage. The case is still ongoing.

We are thinking about publishing a genereal warning. This is not the only case with these types of products we have had. These kind of cases seem to pop up from time to time.
